Introduction

This publication contains a list of place names in the Republic of Ireland (thus excluding Northern Ireland), including geographical information about the different places. The material has been collected over many years and our objective is to make it freely available to the public.

The gazetteer includes geographical names in several categories: the administrative subdivisions, bays and inlets, islands, lakes, mountains, rivers and settlements. The latitudes and longitudes are given, as well as information about the length of the inlets and rivers, the area and population of the islands, the area and height above sea level of the lakes, the height of the mountains, and the population of the settlements. Every settlement listed in the 2006 census, with several additions, is included. For all other categories, the selection includes the most important names.

For Irish language areas, the main entry is placed under the Irish name.

Most population figures are taken from the 2006 census results.

Explanatory notes

Abbreviations and symbols.

Δ district population

§ data not available

b borough

c city

t town

u urban district

These abbreviations may be followed by data/year of incorporation.

Alphabetization.

The order of letters throughout each name is followed strictly:

Castlelack Lake

Castle Lake

Castlemehigan Lough

The two forms an and na of the Irish definite article at the beginning of a name is disregarded and placed after the name:

Gleannta, Na
Mhaoil Rua, An

Modification of spelling following the definite article at the beginning of a name is disregarded:

Seanghualainn
tSeanphailís, An Searcóg

Names beginning with a generic term (e.g. Abhainn, Bá, Cuan, Loch, Lough, Mount, River) are alphabetized under the proper name:

Allen, Lough
Shannon, River

Coordinates.

For area features (e.g. islands, counties), the coordinates indicate the approximate centre of the feature.

Coordinates are given in degrees (°) and minutes (').
